All Who Suffer from Catarrh, Sore Throat or Colds.

Millions of people throughout America have breathed HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-mei) and now own a HYOMEI inhaler made of hard rubber.

If you own a HYOMEI inhaler, no matter where you live, you can get a bottle of HYOMEI at the Red Cross Pharmacy and druggists' everywhere for only 50c.

Ask for an extra bottle of HYOMEI inhalant; it is only 50c and with it you can cure a cough or a cold in a day.

You can get relief from catarrh or stuffed-up head in two minutes and stop hawking and snuffing in a week.

Just pour a few drops of HYOMEI into the inhaler and breathe it in—that's all.

It's so easy and so pleasant and so much more desirable than swallowing nauseating drugs. Breathe Hyomei over the inflamed membrane of the nose and throat, and its soothing, healing action will be felt immediately.

If you have not a HYOMEI inhaler, get a complete HYOMEI outfit at once. This only costs $1.00, and with it comes a HYOMEI inhaler that will last a lifetime and ought to be in every family. For free sample of HYOMEI write Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Don't Rub the Life Out of Your Clothes

Sprinkle a little GOLD DUST in the water, and let the GOLD DUST Twins do all the hard part of the task. GOLD DUST starts to dissolve and lather the moment it strikes the water; it starts to cleanse the moment it comes in contact with the garment. It instantly softens the hardest water, saves rubbing, saves wear and tear on clothes, and does most of the work without your assistance.

Use GOLD DUST next wash day, and have whiter, sweeter, cleaner clothes, with half the effort and in half the time.

MONTPELIER.

A daughter was born yesterday at Heaton hospital to Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Holmes.

The account of Joseph M. Bullock of Northfield, executor of the will of James M. Emerson, late of that town, was settled yesterday in probate court.

Boston papers state that Miss Mary Heavly of Montpelier, who has been in the local courts several times on the charge of theft, was arrested there a few days ago on the same charge and was fined $50 in municipal court. It was alleged that she took $41 from some one living in the same house with her.

Rev. Dr. J. Edward Wright reached home yesterday after an absence of several weeks to the Pacific coast. Four weeks he was in Calgary, Alberta, where he took the place of the regular pastor, who was away, and from there he went to Seattle, Wash., to officiate at the marriage of Miss Maude Lane Harlow. On the way out and back he visited many places of interest and saw many Vermont people, including his son and daughter, who are attending the university of Chicago.

James M. Boutwell served a game dinner at his home Wednesday evening in honor of three railroad friends, who were in the business when he was engineer on the Montpelier & Wells River railroad. They were Representative Charles Bean of Newport, who was conductor on the Boston & Maine, Representative John Mann of St. Albans, who was a conductor on the Central Vermont, and Representative George E. Shorey of Lyndon, an engineer with 40 years' experience. A number of guests were present aside from those in whose honor the gathering was held.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

"Alias Jimmy Valentine" Is a Convict at Sing Sing.

Lieber & company have received from a gentleman signing himself "Ex-No. 259," a criticism concerning the costume worn by Jimmy Valentine in the last act of "Alias Jimmy Valentine," which comes to the opera house Thursday, Dec. 15. This correspondent writes, "Why do you have Jimmy Valentine and the other prisoners wear stripes? Don't you know that there are no striped costumes at Sing Sing? I do."

Paul Armstrong, who wrote the play, refuses to stand corrected. His explanation is that, while the present convict garb at Sing Sing is a miffy indeterminate gray, such as any gentleman might wear in perfect taste, four years ago the stripes were still in vogue. And the first act of the play occurs four years ago, as the program is careful to point out.

RESTRICTED IMMIGRATION

For Economic and Governmental Reasons Desirable.

The present year, when we have been numbered anew and the actual facts as to our national growth are before us, is an excellent occasion for taking up the immigration question again and ascertaining whether any change in our present open-armed policy is advisable. As one interesting contribution to this subject the final report of the immigration commission to Congress is now available and will repay careful attention from every American.

The partial exclusion of unskilled labor is the most striking suggestion made by these congressional investigators. The reasons assigned therefore are findings that the present immigration of unskilled labor is no longer an economic necessity, that this country is not to-day needed as a refuge for the oppressed, and that recent large increments of unskilled aliens have lowered wages and living conditions. Obviously these conclusions of fact are but relatively true. As regards the need for unskilled labor, for example, it is undoubtedly true that with the disappearance of our agricultural frontier and the absorption of our free lands, a new era in our development has been reached, wherein the need as well as the opportunities for untrained hands are in one important quarter reduced. But the remarking and improvement of our railroads, highways, factories, and buildings is a continuing and unending process and must so remain so long as our inventive genius and enterprise stand unimpaired. Probably the most that can be said in this direction is that the urgency of our need for unskilled labor has in a considerable degree abated.

Obviously, however, our immigration question cannot be considered solely as an economic problem. Were our needs ever so urgent, the preservation of our institutions upon a basis of intelligent self government would, of course, be a controlling factor. And therein lie the chief indeterminate considerations in the present view of the problem. Thus far we have absorbed our alien population with a minimum of disturbance to the proper conduct of popular government. But it seems likely that for a variety of reasons, political, social and industrial, a severer and severer strain is to be placed upon our governmental institutions with the coming years. Under the stress of the hour, grave alterations in our system of government have already been proposed and attempted. The value of a proper regard and esteem for the experience and conclusions of the past was never more conspicuously to be felt than in the present hour. Therefore, economic development aside, the continuity of our political tradition assumes an increasing and commanding weight in the determination of immigration problems. The whole question may well be threshed out again by the American people with the new facts of present growth and achievement before them.—The New York Evening Sun.

WEEKLY $1.00.

"A Representative American Institution."

Independent, Enterprising and Always Interesting

A friendly contemporary commenting on The Republican's fine new home completed during the past year said: "The Republican would be great if it was printed in a wooden building on a side street. This is so because it has traditions; it is an institution, serving its far-flung constituency with ever-increasing skill and judgment."

This tersely describes the position of this old New England journal in the newspaper field to-day. Published daily, Sunday and weekly from its modern, well-appointed building in the center of growing Springfield's business district, The Republican serves not only its own city, but an ever-widening circle of readers, who appreciate its sane, intelligent handling of the world's news, and impartial comment on men and affairs. It is the best newspaper for you and your family.

The Weekly Republican, of 16 pages, published Thursdays, is a rare bargain at $1 a year, prized everywhere for its excellence.
